

DR. NINETTE BABINEAU, Junior Strings & School String Ensembles

Dr. Ninette Babineau is an arts education consultant and musician with degrees in education and performance from Hartt College (University of Hartford) and Boston University.

A stringed instrument specialist, she has taught in private studios, schools, and university programs in Canada and the US. After retiring from the position of Instrumental Consultant for the Halifax School Board and as instructor in Dalhousie University's Faculty of Music, she held leadership roles on many regional, provincial and national boards and advisory groups, among them the National and Provincial Music Educators Associations, Coalition for Music Education in Canada, the provincial Department of Culture, Nova Scotia Arts Council, Canada Council, the Department of Canadian Heritage and Orchestras Canada.

She is called upon as an adjudicator/assessor and consultant and continues to take an active role as Board Member for Scotia Festival and advisor for their Young Artist Program.

Dr. Babineau has published internationally on the subject of education in and through the arts and has been the recipient of several national and institutional awards for her work in education.